The Yanchep Rail Extension extends the Joondalup Line 14.5km north as part of the planned growth for Perth to support existing and create new communities where people can live, work and play.

The extension from the existing Butler Station includes new stations at Alkimos, Eglinton and Yanchep that will cater for passengers on day one of operations while being flexible for future developments in the area.

To support community connections and integration, the majority of the rail extension will be in a cutting.

The project will include a 13.8km principal shared path, nine road-over-rail bridges and accommodate a comprehensive bus-feeder network.

Construction is expected to start in 2019.
